

Are you an Architect, Designer or Planner?

Are you looking to give your clients great advice and help deliver efficient industrial or commercial construction while building their new premises?

When you're designing an industrial or commercial building you're always looking to do the best for your client reflect their business and to improve the effectiveness and efficiency of the building.

However sometimes you're not exactly sure of what the best method is for your final commercial or industrial construction process. Well look no further AC Building can do this for you. We have over 30 years experiences in all faucets of building methodologies from tilt panel, solid pours, block to metal frame construction.

How can we help?

After helping many architects with design and commercial construction in Brisbane, the Sunshine Coast, and with other projects throughout Queensland we've seen how hard it can be, that's why we've set up our Design and Construct business, to help architects, designers and planners

How you ask?

By pricing up jobs for you, enabling you to give your client a much more accurate build cost helping them to plan better in funding the commercial construction project.

By identifying effective and efficient commercial construction methods on your projects so you can incorporate them into the project design and show the client how you can save them money.

And by giving you clear time frames and commercial construction schedules on your project that can be passed on to your client so they have a clear idea of how long it will take to build and to help them plan.

It's really that simple, all you need to do is send the plans you're working on to us and we'll review them for you, for FREE!

YES, we'll help identify ways you could save your client money during the industrial or commercial construction process. Plus we can then send you a pricing and construction schedule to help identify these possible savings. Making everything very clear and everyone very happy about their NEW project.
